

Cynthia Maynard

Piano

Cynthia Maynard holds an Associate diploma from the Trinity College of Music London, a Bachelor of Music from Mount Allison University, and a Master in Music Education from Indiana University. She has won the Florence Tate Memorial Prize for Excellence in Piano and the Graduate Assistantship award. Her principle teachers include Patricia Elliot and Fredrick Baldwin. She has performed as a soloist and accompanist for CBC Radio and has also adjudicated for numerous festivals in the Atlantic Provinces. She has led workshops in the areas of choral conducting, developing the young voice, and piano techniques. Ms. Maynard is currently a private tutor at the Ridley College, St. Catharines, Ontario, is Director of Music at St. John the Evangelist in Niagara Falls, Ontario and runs a busy private music school. She is also a member of the Royal Canadian College of Organists and the Ontario Music Educators' Association.